HEALTH X CHANGE

KELOWNA

CALL FOR PRESENTERS

On June 4, 2020, MSFHR, Interior Health and Kelowna General Hospital Foundation will host the first Health xChange Kelowna asking: How can community engaged research influence health system change?

Using a PechaKucha format (20 slides, shown for 20 seconds each), presenters will share stories about community-based research approaches designed to influence the health system and, in turn, increase the health of British Columbians.

We are inviting presentations from across the full spectrum of BC health research. Topics might include, but are not limited to:

- x Creative ways of ensuring a more vibrant diversity of voices are heard, or different forms of knowledge are considered.
- x Novel initiatives that are working to influence health system changes.
- x Community-based participatory research to address the social determinants of health.
- x Learnings that you gleaned from health system change initiatives that didn't go as planned.

Do you have a story to share? Submit a short (200 word) overview or 2-3 minute video to KT@msfhr.org by February 28, 2020.

Submissions should outline:

- x What health issues you hoped to address.
- x What changes were you hoping to make, and what changes you achieved.
- x Lessons learned.
- x Your contact information and where we might find further information about you, your project and/or organization. Presenters are encouraged to apply to co-present with a community partner.
